Carl Radcliff To Resume Duties January 16 After Compromise Is Reached

BACK SALARY FORFEITED

Commission Hits Case Of City By Eliminating Immorality Count

Patrolman Carl Radcliff, removed from the Circleville force last December 1 by order of Safety Director Karl J. Herrmann, will return to duty Tuesday, January 16, by virtue of a compromise reached Wednesday evening as his appeal before the Civil Service Commission neared its close.

As a result of the compromise Radcliff will go back to work as a night patrolman with a "clean slate," all charges dismissed. His part of the compromise includes forfeiture of any claim to the approximately $165 he has lost by being off duty for the period from December 1 until January 16.

The compromise agreement was signed by Safety Director Herrmann, Radcliff, his counsel and members of the Civil Service Commission, James Wickensimer, Joseph Brink and Harry L. Bartholomew.

Three Charges Eliminated

The director's case against Radcliff was blown sky high during the Wednesday afternoon hearing when the Commission sustained a motion by the patrolman's attorneys to strike three charges from Herrmann's list of seven. The complaints eliminated included: failure to perform assigned duties in that he left the cruiser and was not on duty in the car from 1 a. m. to 4 a. m. on September 27; that he was guilty of immoral conduct, and that he had previ-

STATE TO PLACE ATHENS COUNTY BRIDE IN HOME

ATHENS, Jan. 11—Custody of Mary Alice Lindenberg, Athens County child bride, was given the state bureau of charities today by Juvenile Judge Francis White. The bureau will find a home for the 10-year-old girl with foster parents whose name and residence will not be disclosed.

Judge White originally planned to commit the girl to a detention home but later decided that her interests would be best served by placing her in some good private home.

Her five-day marriage to a 21-year-old coal miner, Charles Schall, was interrupted last week when her stepfather complained that her age had been falsified in obtaining a license.

Schall and Mary Alice's mother, Mrs. Lydia Hudnall, each face one-year jail sentences on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Steps have been taken to annul the marriage.

Commission Warns All Patrolmen

Safety Director Instructed To 'Crack Down'

Circleville policemen were warned Wednesday evening by the Civil Service Commission to check up on their conduct or face elimination from the force.

The warning came at about 9 p. m. after the appeal of Patrolman Carl Radcliff had been compromised and the officer had been reinstated for duty effective January 16 without pay for the time he lost from December 1 until that date.

The Commission instructed Police Chief W. F. McCrady to call in all members of the department, except Patrolman Fred Fitzpatrick who was not on duty, to hear a statement. Present were McCrady, Alva Shasteen, Charles Mumaw, George Green and Elmer Merriman, in addition to Carl Radcliff.

Harry L. Bartholomew, secretary of the Commission, read the statement which declared that "without doubt there is a certain degree of truth to the charges against Radcliff, but he is not alone guilty of misconduct. So are other members of the department. We have no power to correct these abuses unless charges are filed with us."

"But we are serving warning," the secretary continued to read, "on every member of the department that if these abuses are not corrected at once and for all, that charges will be filed and no leniency may be expected from this Commission on proof of the same."

Clean Up Demanded

The secretary declared that "the public is demanding that a 'cleaning-up' be made and we fully intend to stand by our oaths as commissioners."

"Women and liquor are absolutely taboo and abuses in this regard must be stopped at once," the statement continued. "We recommend," Bartholomew read, "that the Safety Director proceed to 'crack down' on these abuses and that he overlook no violation of these rules which are established by statute.

"We make these observations not only for the public good, but for every member of the department. We submit that there is no member of this department who would not have a difficult time obtaining a job for the same salary with a future pension.

"We therefore trust that it will not be necessary for us to exercise our authority in the future, but if we are called on to do so we fully expect to perform our duty," the statement closed.

Other commissioners are James Wickensimer and Joe Brink.

Reds Being Dropped From Planes Behind Lines of Defensive Forces

HELSINKI, Jan. 11—Thrust back over their own frontier on four fronts, the Red army of Russia today tried — after six weeks of infantry failure — to smash the Mannerheim Line on the Carelian Isthmus with artillery fire. Russia's biggest guns were brought into position to pound the trenches and fortifications of the line where repeated plunges by the Russians have resulted in heavy losses.

HELSINKI, Jan. 11 — Soviet women have been acting as secret agents for Russia in the war against Finland, it was disclosed today as the Finnish high command claimed Russian troops have been hurled back across the border at four separate points.

Revelation of the role played by the Soviet women came with discovery of a group of them hiding — half-frozen — in the woods behind the Finnish lines.

Authorities ascertained they were part of the secret service organization of the U. S. S. R. and had landed on Finnish territory by parachuting to earth from Soviet war planes. Some of the parachutes they had used were later found hanging in trees.

Officials who questioned the feminine operatives found that they spoke Finnish "very badly." Meanwhile, on the eastern frontier, military authorities said the Red army invaders had been beaten back to their own territory in the Tornua, Raate, Roukkalan-jaervi and Tuulijaervi sectors. KING CALLS FOR NORDIC AID IN FINN STRUGGLE

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 11 — All possible material and spiritual aid to Finland was promised by King Gustav today in a speech opening the Swedish parliament.

"Sweden was and is conscious of her obligations to give the valiant Finnish people all the material and humanitarian help she can in view of her own position."

Calling for similar assistance from Norway and Denmark, King Gustav said:

"Collaboration of the other Nordic states which are not bound by alliance lies close to my heart. (Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania have military alliances with the Soviet.)

"This collaboration has the essential task of defending the common interests of neutral states.

"I earnestly hope it will be equally strong in the service of general peace.

"In conformity with the desire of my people, I am, as always, ready to contribute my efforts to the reestablishment of peace."

FINNISH PATROLS CLEAN UP RUSS FORCE

BY GEOFFREY COX

KAYNA, Finland, Jan. 11—On a snow-covered highway only 12 miles from the Russian border I watched the closing stages today of a battle in which Finnish troops wiped out the 44th Soviet division on the Suomussalmi Front.

For four miles the road was blocked with trucks, guns, tanks and other war gear.

Stepping over bodies of the dead, Finnish troops with rifles in hand were steadily working their way ahead. They looked ghostly in their

Sharp Combat Takes Place As England And Scotland Send Fighters Into Air; Essex Coast Scene Of Fight

LONDON, Jan. 11—German war planes on missions of destruction came to England and Scotland today, attacking at least one merchant ship and engaging in sharp combat with planes of the Royal Air Force.

An air ministry communique describing the new surge of German aerial activity which drew fire from anti-aircraft guns and British fighters all the way from the Essex coast of England to southern Scotland said:

"Enemy aircraft appeared off the Firth of Forth and the estuaries of the Humber and Thames rivers.

"They were driven off by anti-aircraft fire, as well as by fighter patrols off the Norfolk Coast.

"Enemy aircraft made a bombing attack on a merchant vessel and were intercepted and engaged by fighter patrols."

The Nazi raiders were particularly active near the area where a fleet of British trawlers were attacked by German planes on Tuesday, but the only new maritime loss reported up to a late hour was an unidentified vessel which sank off the East Coast after an explosion, presumably caused by a mine.

A lifeboat went out to rescue the crew while crowds watched from the cliffs.

During the new wave of Nazi aerial activity, anti-aircraft and machine-gun fire was heard in various parts of the British Isles. Numerous towns on the south-eastern coast of Scotland witnessed the approach of the German planes. Three were driven out to sea by British planes off Scotland.

NAVY EXPANSION BILL LANDS ON IMPORTANT SNAG

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11—The navy's request for a $1,300,000,000 expansion bill struck a snag in congress today as members began to question necessity for a 25 percent increase in fighting ships, excepting only battleships.

Encouraged by the declaration of Senator Walsh (D) Massachusetts, chairman of the senate naval affairs committee, that he is not convinced of the necessity, members of the house naval affairs committee planned to closely question the navy's commanding officers.

Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, revealed a change in future plans to the house committee. Instead of contemplating a navy to resist the attack of a single power—as it did two years ago—the navy now is considering the possibility of a "dictator coalition" against America.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 11—William Franklin Kern, who only last Monday resigned as head football coach at Carnegie Tech, has been offered a four-year contract at West Virginia University, it was learned authoritatively today.

billowing snow pages as they moved through the Arctic dusk. From time to time they came on Russians who had been scattered at the height of the battle. Most of the Red army soldiers were alone.

Sometimes there was the crash of a hand grenade. The Finns were hunting down the last remnants of 17,000 men, mostly Ukrainians, whom they defeated after a pitched battle lasting three days.

ANNULMENT DECREE ENDS MARRIAGE OF YOUNG GIRL

A Kentucky marriage had gone on the rocks Thursday in Pickaway County Common Pleas court when an annulment was granted in the suit of Viola Mae Ward, 14, of Ashville, against Chester McCain, 17, of Mt. Sterling. The suit was brought by the girl's father, Claude Ward.

The couple was married in Greenup, Ky., November 15, by a justice of the peace.

Explosive Used to Rob Ohio Bank Kills Bandit

WILMINGTON, Jan. 11—Sheriff J. E. Hodson today said that Forrest Miller, 25, Reesville, O., was the man who robbed the Port William, O., bank of $330 and was then blown to bits by the same vial of explosive with which he threatened bank officials.

Miller's mangled body was found in the wreckage of his machine about two miles east of Port William on a county road. The loot was recovered from the wreckage. Port William is about eight miles north of Wilmington on state route 134.

According to Hodson, Miller, a day laborer, entered the Port William Banking Co. late yesterday afternoon. Brandishing a bottle which he declared contained a high explosive, he forced Cashier H. H. Hiatt and Assistant Cashier H. L. Shrack into giving him $330 in bills.

As Miller fled from the bank in his automobile, G. W. Stephan, a hardware dealer, fired two blasts from a shotgun, but missed.

A posse found the body and Deputy Sheriffs Robert Adkins and Miller Fissell, answering a broadcast to participate in the search for the bank robber, were only a short distance west of Circleville when they received the information the bandit was dead.

wrecked car in a ditch a short time later. Hodson theorized that Miller accidentally drove the car from the road and the impact set off the explosive.

According to Hodson, Miller, when he was 19, was sentenced to the Mansfield reformatory for burglary. Four years ago he was caught robbing a store and was sentenced to Ohio Penitentiary.

Since he came home the last time, Hodson said Miller had been a "lone wolf," living alone in a shanty-on-wheels.

The sheriff said it was unknown how Miller got the nitroglycerin. Some dynamite had been missing recently, he said, and added that Miller might have "boiled some down" to make the nitro.

As I asked a Finnish captain who fought in the battle how many Russians were killed, he answered: "I don't think more than a few hundred will get back to Russia. Our patrols are all along the border."

The officer explained that the Finns were finding various fleeing (Continued on Page Four)

Hurriedly-Erected Barricades Only Hope Left

TWO TAKEN OUT

Bartley Scene Of Disaster; Wives Watch Work

BARTLEY, W. Va., Jan. 11—Grimy, sweating rescue gangs, their eyes red-rimmed by soft coal dust, burrowed ever nearer today to the underground trap now only a few hundred feet distant where 89 miners were entombed late yesterday when an explosion ripped through the No. 1 mine of the Pond Creek Pocahontas Coal Company.

Two bodies already have been removed. Hope for the remainder centered on the possibility they might have been able to set up brattices against the avalanche of splintered timbers and slate rubble that tumbled inward when the blast let go.

Cause of the explosion still was undetermined today. Mine Analyst Opie Castell visited the area where the blast occurred only 15 minutes before disaster struck and found the air good.

Families of the entombed miners —shawl-clad women, crying children, grim-faced fellow workers—paced uncertainly about bonfires on the snow swept hillside at the mine entrance. To their grief and fear was added the discomfort of biting cold and a steady snowfall which began early this morning.

It was first reported that 78 men had been trapped in the shattered mine from which 45 escaped unscathed. Later, the figure was set at 93 but this morning, after a more thorough checkup, company officials set the figure at 89.

As dawn broke, word came to the surface that the rescue crews had inched their way to within 1,000 feet of the entombed men. Barring mishaps, such as slate falls or rock collapses, it was estimated the rescue gangs might reach the trapped miners by tonight.

The rescuers, working in small compact squads, were waging a race with the deadly gases that usually follow mine explosions.

A morgue was hurriedly set up at the next mining community, about 15 miles from here, to receive any bodies and speed identification.

Slate Bars Path

Slate falls which impeded the efforts of the rescue squads delayed the drive to reach the entombed men.

As the hours wore on, hope for the safety of the men faded among the rescuers but burned brightly in the hearts of the hundreds of (Continued on Page Four)

ANOTHER FIGHT AT SEA HINTED

British Passenger Liner Unreported On Way To Montevideo

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 11 — Another major naval battle, rivaling or even exceeding the clash which ended in the scuttling of the Admiral Graf Spee, brewed today as reports arose that the British passenger liner Highland Patriot, escorted by the cruiser Achilles, fought a German raider near Santos yesterday.

The rumors, insistent but unconfirmed, called attention to the fact that the Highland Patriot has not yet arrived at Montevideo, Uruguay, where she was due this morning.

The Highland Patriot, and the Avila Star, passenger vessels in the England-South American service, both reported on their arrival earlier in the week at Rio De Janeiro that they had been attacked unsuccessfully by submarines off the Canary Islands.

German warships are reported patrolling the equatorial area off the Brazilian Coast, waiting to convoy German ships now getting up steam at Rio De Janeiro, Pernambuco, Santos, Bahia and other ports.

Seven ships, with full cargoes, are ready to obey orders from Berlin and try to run the British blockade into Germany, reports said.

SENATORS FAVOR MURPHY CHOICE FOR HIGH COURT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11—The Supreme Court nomination of Attorney-General Frank Murphy was unanimously approved by a senate judiciary subcommittee today, after hearing the nominee say he believed the court should exercise "great discretion" in invalidating acts of congress.

Voting for confirmation of the Supreme Court appointment for Murphy were all members of the subcommittee present, Chairman Burke (D) Nebraska, Senator Connally (D) Texas and King (D) Utah, and Senator Austin (R) Vermont.

Two absent members of the subcommittee, Senators Borah (R) Idaho and McCarran (D) Nevada sent word that they also approved the nomination.

Murphy's statement regarding Supreme Court powers came in answer to a point-blank question propounded by Senator Connally, who inquired whether Murphy believed (1) that the Supreme Court had power to declare congressional acts unconstitutional, and (2) whether it should exercise this power.

Murphy replied: "I believe that the court has the power and should exercise it with great discretion."

Connally asked then whether Murphy believed the high court could similarly overrule a state legislative act if it transcended the constitution. Murphy answered:

"Yes."

OUSTED POLICE OFFICER GOES BACK TO WORK

ously been suspended for a 15-day period.

Other allegations left against the officer were that he was intoxicated when on duty November 13, 1939 when in uniform, that he failed to perform the duties of a patrolman in that he left the police car and was not on duty in the car from 2 a. m. to 5 a. m. on November 13, that he failed to make proper telephone calls and was insubordinate the morning of November 16 when he allegedly used the police car to push his own automobile from Water Street to Ohio Street in violation of orders of the department.

Compromise Apparent

As Wednesday evening's session started it was apparent that a compromise of one kind or another was being considered. Carl C. Leist, attorney for the safety director, asked the Commission to delay opening its hearing for the evening while he conferred with the safety director. Leist was gone about 45 minutes when he returned to the council chamber, where hearings were being conducted, and asked Radcliff's lawyers, Tom A. Renick and Ray W. Davis, to go to the safety director's office. There the compromise was worked out; Mrs. Harriett Henness, Commission stenographer, was called to draw up proper entries, and the Radcliff case was closed.

Only 12 witnesses were called during the proceedings, 11 taking the stand for the safety director and Radcliff alone testifying in behalf of his appeal. Radcliff had not yet been cross-examined when the compromise was reached.

The cost of the hearing is shared by the city and county, the city treasury paying for the safety director's counsel and for the stenographer and the county paying witnesses. Radcliff employed his own attorneys.

First witness called in the afternoon was Patrolman Alva Shasteen. His testimony was largely to support the alleged immoral conduct specification.

Walter Crissinger, merchant officer, was called to the stand but his testimony was brief when during the questioning he could establish no dates and most of his remarks went off the record.

McCrady On Stand

Police Chief William McCrady testified that he had received complaints about Radcliff. Attorneys for Mr. Radcliff objected to the testimony of McCrady because he did not state any specific charges. Testimony of Verne Pontius, extra patrolman, was brief when he was unable to establish dates.

Mayor W. B. Cady was called and was on the stand briefly. He said he had heard some complaints against Radcliff and had overheard a conversation between McCrady and Radcliff on one occasion.

The safety director testified he had "tried to do everything I could to eliminate any dismissal."

He said he had held conversations with Mr. Radcliff and the charges were based on information he had received from various sources.

Following the testimony of Mr. Herrmann, counsel for Mr. Radcliff submitted a motion for dismissal of the charges and reinstatement of Mr. Radcliff with back pay from December 1, the date of dismissal.

Attorney Renick contended that the only charge substantiated by testimony of the witnesses concerned the use of the police cruiser to push Radcliff's car. He said this was a very minor infraction of a regulation and certainly not one sufficient to remove a man from his position. It was pointed out that the testimony of Police Chief McCrady was to the effect that the order had been removed from the board some time ago and could not be found.

Attorney Leist said the charges listed by the safety director had been substantiated by the testimony and the commission had no right to reinstate Mr. Radcliff.

"This case so far has certainly fallen flat," was one of the statements made by Ray Davis, attorney for Radcliff. He pointed out that practically all testimony had been stricken from the record. The commission took a short recess to consider the motion before announcing its decision.

Following the ruling of the commission eliminating some of the charges Mr. Radcliff took the stand and denied the allegations of the remaining charges against him. He denied he was intoxicated when in uniform and had failed to make proper reports. He said that on the night of December 12 and 13 that he and Charles Mumaw were in the police cruiser and Mumaw obtained three .410 gauge shotgun shells and told him he was going to hunt rabbits "around the loop", referring to the north end of the city. Radcliff said he left the cruiser at a West Main Street restaurant and continued his patrol duties both on foot and in his own automobile. He said he made a call to the department at 2 a. m. from Haley's restaurant on West Main Street, at the Given Oil Company at 3 a. m. and attempted to call from Grant's coal office at 4 a. m. but was unable to get the door open. He then reported in the department about 5 a. m. In regard to using the police cruiser to push automobiles he said it had been used on a number of occasions to push other autos.

THE SHADOW

"Suicide Inn," the story of a resort whose visitors were suicide victims, is the setting of the Shadow drama for Sunday, January 14, 5:30 p. m. over the MBS network. An odd collection of people are staying at a seashore hotel in the off-season. Among the guests are an old sea captain; a bitter spinster; a dwarf; and an old man afflicted with an incurable disease. One suicide has taken place before the story opens, and others take place during it unfolding.

The Shadow appears on the scene, and discovers that the suicides are the results of a plan laid by the first suicide, and still working. Thru the use of rare tropical hats, resort visitors are afflicted with an overpowering desire for air and water, and go out into the ocean and drown. The motive back of this ferocity that reaches out from the grave is an old dispute as to the inn's ownership. The cast includes Bill Johnstone, Marjorie Anderson, Kenny Delmar, Arthur Vinton and Teddy Bergman.

RADIO NEWS BRIEFS

One of the first things Ezra Stone, star of "The Aldrich Family," did when he became director of the Broadway revue, "From Vienna," was to change the title of the opus to "Reunion in New York."

Rita Ray, vocalist with Gray Gordon's orchestra is a protegee of Darrell Martin, radio editor of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, who predicts she will be one of the top notchers of the 1940 season. She's a mite of a girl, standing five feet high but is a bundle of rhythm.

Cal Tinney, star of "Youth vs. Age," gets quizzed himself by Nellie Revell on the NBC-Red network January 19.

Pneumonia has kayoed Smilin' Ed McConnell and while he's battling the illness his CBS spot will be filled by Joe Du Mond, radio's "Josh Higgins."

AT THE CLIFTONA

With war filling the front pages of newspapers, the dramatic recreation of a memorable incident of the last World War when Russian and Austrian soldiers faced each other across No Man's Land on Christmas Night and sang the hymn, "Silent Night," is one of the most effective sequences in "Balalaika," the spectacular musical which opens Sunday at the Cliftona Theatre, with Nelson Eddy and Ilona Massey as the stars. The war incident was reproduced with absolute authenticity under the technical guidance of Count Andrey Tolstoy, a former officer

Prediction Calls For Warm Temperatures; Snow Falls During Night

Rain and warmer temperatures Thursday and Friday were expected to clear away most of the snow and ice of the last two weeks.

An additional two and a half inches of snow Wednesday night boosted the total on the ground in Circleville to seven inches. Wednesday night's snow melted measured .2 of an inch.

The lowest temperature Wednesday was 32 degrees and during the night it raised one degree. With the mercury above the freezing line Thursday it was expected to clear away a large part of the snow.

Highway workers went on duty at midnight. The snow packed on highways making driving hazardous. They warned motorists to be cautious as the packed snow is slippery.

"Balalaika" is a story of Old Russia before, during and after the Revolution. It is based on the London stage musical success by Eric Maschwitz and is one of the most elaborate productions in which Nelson Eddy has appeared.

F.D.R. TO TURN DOWN PARTY'S NEW TERM BID

—SAYS FORECASTER

President Will Be Named At Convention, Capitol Hill Expert Hints

DRAMA TO BE PROVIDED

Man Who Predicted Number Of Developments States His Belief

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 — "President Roosevelt will be re-nominated for the presidency by the Democrats but will refuse the honor in a sensational manner by dramatically bowing to the sanctity of the third term tradition."

This forecast of the President's 1940 plans was made today by a prominent administration leader, who has led many New Deal battles on Capitol Hill. Noted for his reluctance to be quoted, this Democratic prophet based his prediction solely on his knowledge of Mr. Roosevelt's habits, thoughts, aspirations and reactions.

This forecaster was one of the few men to predict the Supreme Court appointment of Justice Hugo Black. Long ago, he declared Mr. Roosevelt would achieve control of the supreme court in his second administration — a goal reached when he made his fifth selection for the nine-man court in the nomination of Attorney General Frank Murphy.

This New Dealer recalled the President has doted on shattering precedents amid surprise and drama. He mentioned Mr. Roosevelt's historic flight in 1932 to address the Chicago convention — the first time a presidential nominee had ever ventured into the air; the Black appointment itself; the supreme court enlargement bill — and now, the President's silence on the third term issue, a smashing of precedents in itself.

Breaks Tradition

"Yes, the President loves to shatter precedents and that leads some to believe he will break the third term tradition," the forecaster observed. "But he would really shatter precedent if he refused a third term nomination. No man ever has refused a presidential nomination from a major party."

"Horatio Seymour also did it in 1868 but he eventually kept the nomination and went on to his defeat."

(Editor's note: —Horatio Seymour, nominated by the Democrats at their New York convention in 1868 at first declined the honor. Later, he reconsidered and accepted. He was defeated by General U. S. Grant in the subsequent election.)

"The President will remain silent about his plans until after the convention has renominated him," the forecaster continued. "He would be incredibly stupid to announce now that he would not accept a renomination. If he did, he would commit political hari-kari. He would be dropped like a squeezed lemon. He would never get anything from this congress."

"The Gentleman from Indiana"

A FATHER LOOKS AT HIS CHILD

You may disagree with Senator George Norris, "the father of TVA" until Kingdom come. But you have to admit that here is God's rarest gift to government, a forthright man. TVA is his child. He wants it to wax fat and multiply. But, unlike some New Dealers he scorns to deal in half-truths. He faces the facts. A few months ago in the Senate he spoke of a proposal from a great association in Tennessee which said in effect, "Let the TVA property be subject to taxation the same as everybody else's property."

The mine-run citizen might say, "Well, why not?" But not Uncle George. He met the issue head on. He said, "If we go to that extreme, Senators can see that the TVA would be out of business in three months."

For intellectual candor this deserves high rank. If uttered by someone who prophesied in 1933 that TVA could not pay equal taxes and live, it would be sneered off as Tory propaganda that ought to be investigated. But coming from Senator Norris it can't be laughed off. If he is right, the whole wordy facade of TVA as an honest "yardstick" by which to measure power and light rates, falls like a house of cards.

The question before the country is whether the people of other sections will wish to continue to tax themselves and their industries more than otherwise necessary in order to make up tax deficits in the Tennessee Valley which is taking their industries from them.

There are signs that this issue is moving toward a showdown. The question is simple. It is, who will pay the TVA taxes? Should the people living in the territory benefited by TVA pay, all its taxes, or shall the sections hurt by TVA pay some of its taxes?

When TVA bought the properties of the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation last August for $78,000,000, Wendell Wilkie said "Tonight we hand over a $2,800,000 tax problem." That is the total tax previously paid by the property when it was in private hands. It includes $528,000 paid to the Federal government for all of which Uncle Sam will now have to look elsewhere. Mr. Lou MacDonald, counsel for the Tennessee Public Utility Commission estimates the taxes previously paid to Tennessee by all companies which have been acquired is more than $3,000,000.

In addition who will pay the taxes formerly paid by 917,000 acres of bottom land now flooded by reservoirs? (It is here interesting to note that TVA's "flood prevention" has permanently flooded and totally destroyed 917,000 acres as against 542,000 acres temporarily flooded in the highest water of record).

Polk County, Tennessee, has lost 40 percent of its former tax revenues, Marion County a third. In all, 76 of Tennessee's 100 counties are affected. Fannin County, Georgia, has lost two-thirds of its tax income. Already the officials of these counties are saying that unless somebody comes to their rescue they will have to default on their local bond issues and close their schools.

TVA pays 5 percent of its revenue in lieu of taxes, or about $700,000 a year. But this does not fool Congressmen Andrew Jackson May of Kentucky who has something of the spirit of his famous namesake. Mr. May contrasts TVA's 5 percent with the 17 percent of tax resources formerly paid by the companies when privately owned.

The father of TVA is not entirely happy. When he hears the cries of pain from harassed counties whose taxable properties have been taken away from them he says, "The people ought to be grateful and ought to be glad. . . They are looking a gift horse in the mouth." O sharper than a serpent's tooth is an ungrateful child. Senator, did you never hear that political gratitude is only the expression of more favors yet to come?

How this mess will be cleaned up, deponent sayeth not. TVA may be ordered by Congress to raise its contribution temporarily in lieu of taxes so that counties may avoid bankruptcy. But it is not proposed that this contribution will equal the taxes formerly paid by private companies. So the yardstick continues to be short.

And, of course, whatever tax it may continue to pay still further postpones any return to Uncle Sam for the hundreds of millions he has invested in this project. Be it noted that so far TVA has paid Uncle Sam nothing whatever. It has had a free ride for its capital. This is not peculiar to any government project operated for political effect. The Federal Barge Line on the Mississippi has also paid the government exactly nothing on its investment to make a yardstick of water transportation costs. And so forth and so on. The peculiar characteristic of these vast Socialistic ventures is their political dishonesty.

INFAMOUS RAIL OUTLAW ENDS LIFE WITH GAS

Roy Gardner Writes That Man Serving Five Years Can't Come Back

NOTE LEFT FOR PRESS

Former Convict Gained Much Notoriety For Ability To Escape Captors

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 11.—The year and a half struggle of Roy Gardner to shake off the reputation of America's No. 1 convict-escape artist and gain a respected position in society was at an end today—in death.

The 56-year-old one-time notorious mail bandit committed suicide last night in a San Francisco hotel. There, after packing all his belongings and leaving half-dollar tips for the porters and the maid, Gardner ended his life in a self-constructed lethal gas chamber.

Employing the same method used in San Quentin prison executions, the former Alcatraz inmate slipped into his bathroom, dropped a few cyanide crystals in a crucible of sulphuric acid and inhaled the deadly fumes.

Others Warned
Gardner had taken every precaution to prevent any one else from inhaling the lethal gas. Outside his hotel room he had hung a "Do Not Disturb" sign. On the bathroom door was a note: "Do Not Open This Door—Poison Gas—Call the Police."

On Gardner's baggage, police found a note addressed to members of the San Francisco press. In part, it stated:

"Please let me down as light as possible. I have played ball with you all the way, and now you should pitch me a slow one and let me hit it."

"I am checking out simply because I am old and tired and don't care to continue the struggle. There are no love affairs or disappointments... just tired that's all."

"I hold no malice toward any human being and I hope those I have wronged will forgive me for it..."

"I would have dodged plenty of grief that I endured unnecessarily if I had checked out in 1920."

Can't Come Back
"All men who have to serve more than five years in prison are doomed, but they don't realize it. They kid themselves into the belief they can 'come back,' but they can't. There is a barrier between the ex-convict and society that can not be levelled..."

"If you think I am wrong just watch Tom Mooney or Beesmyer and see how they wind up."

(Tom Mooney, the internationally known labor prisoner, was freed from San Quentin prison a year ago. Gilbert Beesmyer, Hollywood financier who embezzled eight million dollars and served nine years in San Quentin, was freed this week.)

"Goodbye and good luck, boys and please grant my last request. Thanks. Sincerely yours. (Signed) Roy Gardner."

Gardner's last request was that the newsman should not mention his daughter's married name "because her in-laws do not know she is my daughter."

Gardner rocketed to notoriety in 1920 when he was sentenced to 25 years imprisonment for an $85,000 mail truck robbery in San Diego. En route to McNeil Island penitentiary he overpowered guards and escaped from the train in Portland, Ore.

He was recaptured and incarcerated at McNeil Island. There he went over the wall, remaining at large until 1921.

Meanwhile, he staged a mail train robbery between Sacramento and Roseville, escaping with $175,000—one of the biggest hauls in American railroad history.

This job brought an additional 25-year sentence. Again en route to McNeil Island, Gardner escaped his guards near Vancouver, Wash.

Arrested in Centralia, Wash., Gardner was once more taken to McNeil Island on Puget Sound and once more escaped, this time during a prison baseball game.

His next arrest came in Phoenix, Ariz. Two months later, Gardner was taken to Leavenworth, where he served until 1935 when he was transferred to Alcatraz Island. There he served the rest of his sentence. However, his legal freedom was finally granted at Leavenworth, when he was returned from Alcatraz. The final freedom was granted in June 1938.

CAB AND AUTO HIT
A Black and White cab driven by Robert Anderson, 526 East Mound Street, and an auto driven by Morris Gordon, 432 East Mound Street, were involved in a collision Wednesday at Pickaway and Franklin Streets. Police said Gordon was going north in Pickaway Street and the cab was going west in Franklin Street. The intersection was icy, the report stated. No one was hurt.

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—The license of C. E. Bowers, Circleville chiropractor and mechanotherapist, was revoked because he "violated the limitations placed on his license," Dr. H. N. Platter, secretary of the Ohio Medical Board, declared today.

Dr. Platter accused Bowers of engaging in general practice.

"He was giving medicine and is not entitled to give it," Dr. Platter said.

The board also revoked the license of two physicians and suspended the certificates of two others, Dr. Platter said.

Dr. H. H. McLaren, of Toledo, and Dr. C. O. Bayless, of Dayton, were denied the right to practice because of alleged unprofessional and dishonest conduct.

Licenses of Drs. C. M. Daugherty and R. C. Bush, both of Hudson, were suspended for five years.

The election of the Sagamore is made by past Sachems of each tribe in the state.

89 W. VIRGINIA MEN BURIED AS BLAST HITS PIT

their kin clustered around bonfires through the night.

Unless the trapped men succeeded in throwing up barricades to keep the gases from seeping into their underground traps it was doubtful that they could remain alive for long.

The rescue crews, equipped with oxygen, worked in 30 minute relays. Their task was to remove the debris, dig new openings, shore up the roof and sides and establish a ventilating system.

Forty-five miners working at the time of the blast escaped. It was not until they reached the outside that they learned an explosion had shaken the mine and not a heavy slate fall as they had at first believed.

The trapped men were between two and two and a half miles away from the shaft opening.

Federal and state mining officials sped to the scene to direct the rescue work with the cooperation of company officials.

Barricade Hinted
The chances that the men had safely barricaded themselves were pronounced "very slim" by H. G. Houtz, state mining engineer.

The first body encountered about a half mile from the shaft entrance was identified as that of Charles Moffitt. The second was not immediately identified. Both were left for the time being where found as the rescuers pressed forward.

State mining officials said the Bartley No. 1 mine was gaseous to a certain extent but had been thoroughly rock-dusted. There was some speculation as to whether the men had passed broken through into a gas-filled section that was unused.

The shafts of the other two Pond Creek mines are nearby.

Poor communications in the sparsely settled mining section delayed news of the disaster.

The mine is one of the most modern in the West Virginia fields, producing an average of 1,500,000 tons of coal a year.

ing bands of Soviet troops in the woods. He added:

"They are so cold they give themselves away by lighting fires."

One of our patrols wiped out a complete company sitting around a fire last night."

He explained that after 30 hours of fighting which the Russians were out-flanked and caught unaware from behind, a Russian officer radioed frantically for help.

The Finns, who picked up the message, heard the Russian staff reply:

"You can win with the men you have."

Finally a meagre force of five Soviet relief companies was sent but never got past the Finns watching along the border.

On the battlefield the Russians were almost out of food. Their horses which had no hay chewed the bark from pine trees.

At last came the orders for retreat. A closely packed line of tractors pulling guns and tanks began to move to the East. The Finns closed in and the Russian drivers were killed at their wheels.

The Russian column still stands in one fantastic traffic jam. Not one vehicle got back to Russia.

GERMAN STEAMER HITS ICEBERG, SINKS AT SEA

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Jan. 11.—A German steamer identified as the "Bahia Blanca" struck an iceberg and was believed to have sunk 60 miles off Iceland today.

Sixty-two members of the crew were rescued by an Icelandic trawler and are being brought to Reykjavik.

The only "Bahia Blanca" registered in Lloyd's register of shipping is a 600-ton Argentinian coastal vessel.

There is, however, a Hamburg-American line freighter named the Bahia, a vessel of 4,117 tons, which may have been the sunken ship.

STANFORD ALUMNI FOR SHAUGHNESSY AND SHAW

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Jan. 11.—A deluge of letters on the office of President Ray Lyman of Stanford University today showed a split in alumni ranks over selection of a football coach.

The graduates—whose pressure resulted in the dismissal of Coach "Tiny" Thornhill at the close of a hapless 1939 season—were aligned on one side for Clark Shaughnessy of Chicago University; on the other side for Buck Shaw, veteran Santa Clara grid mentor.

Meantime, the stock "no comment" phase was again uttered by Graduate Manager Al Masters. The Stanford Board of Athletic Control, following a Sunday meeting, deferred its verdict until tomorrow night.

Those alumni who voiced, penned and telegraphed disfavor toward the possible Shaughnessy appointment pointed out his non-impressive record at Chicago, where intercollegiate football was abandoned after last season. Shaughnessy, it was known, conferred with President Wilbur and other Stanford officials during a trip to the coast last week.

Considered a popular third choice was Coach Bud De Groot of San Jose State, whose Spartan squad was unbeaten and untied last season.

FINNISH THROW RUSSIANS BACK IN FOUR ZONES

Soviet Soldiers Run Into Their Own Territory, Helsinki Claims

ing Russians followed them into Soviet territory, it was stated.

Finns Advancing

On the Carelian Isthmus where the Russians have launched repeated unsuccessful attacks against the Mannerheim Line, Finnish forces advanced at several points more than a mile.

The gains were registered by means of fierce patrol skirmishes, supported by heavy artillery fire.

While a virtual pause in operations was reported from the far north-eastern front, a Russian battalion was broken up just north of Lake Ladoga and some 200 Russians were killed.

Despite snow storms, Russian war planes bombed several towns along the southern Finnish coast. Results of the attacks were not revealed.

On the Salla Front, where the Finns have encamped still another Russian division, hard fighting was reported in progress.

At the same time, as the Finns carried out a "mopping up" program on the Suomussalmi Front following defeat of the 44th Soviet division, astonishing details of that Russian debacle reached Helsinki.

As soon as the Finnish victory became inevitable, these advances said, the Russian political commissars in charge of the "morale" of the Red army soldiers fled. As soon as these "watch-dogs" had disappeared, the Finns claimed, the Russian soldiers surrendered in droves.

Much Equipment Seized
Booty seized by the conquering Finnish forces from the broken 44th division was estimated as worth no less than $10,000,000. It comprised hundreds of tons of shells and millions of rounds of smaller ammunition.

Finnish military reports said that Gen. Vinogradov, chief of the Russian army corps, and a few of his followers fled into the woods when the 44th division cracked up—just as Gen. Samsonov of Russia did after the historic battle of Tannenberg in the World War.

Finnish authorities pointed out that the positions held by the defending forces following their most recent victories are now approximately along the lines demanded by Soviet Premier-Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov in a recent speech at Moscow.

Finnish troops are now occupying part of Russian Karelia while Soviet forces are holding another part of the Carelian Isthmus. The Hangoe Peninsula, which Moscow demanded, is still held by the Finns, however.

Authorities in Helsinki said they did not believe the present military positions would serve as the basis for peace negotiations.

Dean believes the removal of an impacted wisdom tooth will enable him to regain the brilliant pitching form he displayed while with the St. Louis Cardinals, his wife said today.

Finally, and least forgivable of all, he democratized the British military schools, making it possible for a commoner to become a high ranking officer. Hitherto, British military colleges had been open only to young men of wealth and position. Hore-Bellisha shocked the army by putting the cadets on the same status of equality as at West Point.

So the clique which controls the British army began greasing the skids for him from the very start. All of which added up to his exodus last week.

MOTORIZATION
THIS week the General Motors Corporation is celebrating the production of its 25,000,000th car. That is an amazing record for any manufacturing company or for any country. It moves Americans to take a look around and see how motor cars are faring in the world generally.
Rather poorly, we'd say, outside of this continent. The United States is naturally on top, with about 30,000,000 automotive vehicles, and that is nearly three-fourths of all the cars and trucks in the world.
We have on the average almost one car per family. Next come, in order, Great Britain with about 2,500,000, France with a little over 2,000,000, Germany with perhaps 1,500,000 and Canada with 1,300,000. The rest are hardly worth counting.
These figures are a year or two old. In Europe today there are very few automobiles in private use; in Germany, private cars are all jacked up in the garage and the government has taken the tires for the army.
It will do no harm to think of some of these figures next time you take a ride. You're lucky to have a car and American industry is lucky to have your trade.

ARE THESE DULL TIMES?
SOMETIMES it is hard to understand what goes on in the minds of contemporary college students. Mostly they seem to be as level-headed, intelligent and well-informed as any college generation on record, but they have their queer moments.
Seniors of Columbia College, for example, at Columbia University, have recently voted that the course in contemporary civilization which they had in their freshman and sophomore years was, at the same time, both the "best" course and the "dullest" course of their four years. They may have arrived at this conclusion on the theory that some unpleasant medicine is very good for the patient or that a quiet, and uneventful life is better than an exciting one.
An outsider, however, viewing contemporary civilization through the daily newspapers and the radio and his own life's uncertainties, thinks "dull" is hardly the adjective to apply to what goes on today.
Those Russians don't mind getting licked at all. Every time they have another army smashed, they cheerfully issue a bulletin saying "nothing important has happened."

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

PAGES From the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:
Up without quite so much of a shiver and much pleased by the moderation in temperature. Belowstairs to frown at what is left of the coal pile and then turned to the morning prints. Learned that the Reds are still giving the Reds a fighting lesson and that Republicans also can play this game of cash distribution in increasing hunks. Bricker now favors increase in old age pensions. Saw our milk man with his feet and hands practically frozen, he having been out since 4 by the clock. There is a chap I would not blame for going on WPA or some kind of relief, but he would rather work.
Earl Hilyard, the Pennsy man, brought in a box of delicious hard German cookies. Met Tink Hill and collected a double-size Coca Cola off him because he thought Ohio State's basketballers would take Purdue into camp. Chatted with garage men and learned that mechanics are reaping a harvest these days because of the slick streets and highways. Scores of cars have been damaged more or less by collision or landing in ditches. I expected a major accident the other night when a motorist with more horsepower than brains ran east out glassy Main Street at 60 miles an hour. Hopped right through the last stoplight and fortunately for others no cars were traveling north or south at the time. I never mourn very long the passing of such chumps as that. It is only when innocent parties are involved that any of my sympathy is stirred.
In came a C. P. A. for annual check of last year's business. Nothing over which to be excitedly proud except that we did escape flopping into the red. This year should be much better for everyone. That's the optimist at work. Being a pessimist these times is really easy, but none must work at it if he insists on being an optimist. No fun anyway in locking on the black side of things.
Eleven directors to be elected by the Chamber of Commerce this year, each with a definite task to perform and the entire picture showing a better village twelve months hence. That picture will be painted, too, if there is sufficient spirit of co-operation. The trouble now is that there are entirely too few active workers and too many grandstand quarterbacks. And every one of those outside quarterbacks acts as an anchor against progress. I'll wager that they could and would do much toward improving local conditions if they would insert themselves in the Chamber and keep on insisting that things be done properly.
In the evening to the C. A. C. where Circleville dropped a thriller basketball game to Wilmington. Circleville should have won and would, too, except that in the third quarter the boys' corks were completely pulled and they did not get back into stride until the final session. But it was a great game, the most interesting I have been to in many a day. I am beginning to believe that Coach Black within the next year or two will be giving us the kind of athletic teams that the old timers like to talk about.
Recently I heard a young man tearing down the high school football team of last fall. Those gridders did nothing to suit him. "Why, when I was in school and playing on that team—" He got no farther than that when another voice cut in with the comment, "You lost every game." And the statement was not denied.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round
BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,
OUSTING OF HORE-BELISHA
WASHINGTON—Tip-off to the much discussed ousting of Leslie Hore-Belisha as British Minister of War is the fact that his successor, Oliver Stanley, is one of the pro-German members of the Cabinet.
Stanley is the son of Lord Londonderry, educated in Germany and a member of the Cliveden set which was responsible for the Munich pact and encouraged an rapprochement with Hitler before war broke. Oliver Stanley, now 43 years old, has been promoted to high position solely through the influence of his father.
Add to this the facts that Hore-Belisha is Jewish and was the most active member of the British Cabinet in prosecuting the war, and you get the main reason why Chamberlain ousted him.
That reason is: Chamberlain and the overwhelming majority of the Cabinet want to make an early peace with Germany, then turn against Russia; and Hitler will not talk while a Jew is heading the British army's drive against Germany. With a pro-German Minister of War, the chances for peace are better.

POPULAR BELISHA
Also—and this must have been a contributing factor—Hore-Belisha was the most energetic, one of the youngest, and decidedly the most popular cabinet member in Britain. As such, he constituted the chief political threat to Chamberlain. He had greater potentialities than any other man for leading an effective opposition to Chamberlain. Many people predicted that he would be the next Prime Minister.
Therefore, it was better for Chamberlain to polish him off and place him on the side-lines now, rather than after he got too important.
It is worthwhile to remember that the Chamberlain Cabinet is composed largely of men old in years, even older in mind. Anthony Eden, now Minister of Colonies, is young, but has not been a vigorous member of the Chamberlain Cabinet. A quiet career man, he has been content to sit on the sidelines and let Hore-Belisha do the scragging.
Malcolm MacDonald, son of Labor Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, also is young, but has been a big disappointment. As Secretary for the Dominions he is a nonentity.

THE OLD ORDER
When Duff Cooper was First Lord of the Admiralty, he and Hore-Belisha made a young, hard-headed team of fighters for Empire defense. But with Duff Cooper's resignation Hore-Belisha remained the one representative of the new generation, surrounded by starchy representatives of a system which is making its last muddling stand.
These factors were more important than Hore-Belisha's row with the army, though this row was by no means petty. As War Minister, Hore-Belisha first fired all the fuddy-duddies at the head of the army, replacing them with younger men.

Rheumatism—America's Prevalent Disease
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
What is the most frequent disease in North America?
Acute inflammatory rheumatism is first in prevalence, second in producing disability, second in producing invalidism and fourteenth in causing death in the United States. There are 6,850,000 patients who have or who have had inflammatory rheumatism out of our population of 127,000,000. There are almost twice as many cases as there are of heart disease.
The disability and invalidism are produced by the damage which acute inflammatory rheumatism does to the heart. It is a frequent cause of valvular disease of the heart. In order to prevent this complication, no matter how light the case may be, the patient, especially a child, should be kept at bed rest or as close to bed rest as possible for six weeks after the acute condition has subsided.

When the skin temperature rises, only the warm spots are stimulated. When

By Marie Blizard
CHAPTER FORTY-EIGHT
FABIENNE heard the telephone ring and came out of a deep, peaceful sleep to hear Prunella's muffled voice in the other room.
She called: "Prunella! I'm awake and I'm starving!"
Prunella, with a broad smile on her face, opened the bedroom door. "Mah goodness, you still hungry, chile? After all that food you et las' night? I'll have you brekfuss in a minute."
"Run the tub first, Prunella."
"You ain't gonna git up, Miz Fabienne? Miz Ellen sez you is to stay abed this mawnin'. She had to go to the settlemen' house fo' a little while, but she's comin' home any minute."
"I can't stay in bed. I've got things to do. Get the porter and have him bring my trunk up here."
"You goin' away?" Prunella asked, her smile disappearing into the cloud of her face.
Fabienne nodded. "Go along, Prunella. Bath first, trunk and then breakfast."
"All mawnin' the telephone's bin ringin' and people askin' for you, Miz Fabienne."
"I don't want to talk to anyone, Prunella."
"Doctor Mallory, he say you is to call him when you wakes up."
Fabienne's heart turned over with a bitter-sweet pain.
"He sez you kin git him at his office up to ha'pas' ten. He's operatin' at St. Joseph's hospital at 'leven o'clock. You best hurry, honey. It's nigh onto ten o'clock now."
"Prunella! Will you please do as I ask?"
"Yes, ma'am," she said sadly.
Fabienne bathed hastily, gulped her breakfast and began packing the trunk the porter brought into the living room, trying not to think, not to remember Bill's voice saying, "You see, it's this way, Fab—I'm in love with you."
She should have known it long ago, prevented it's ever happenin'—
It was not too late now, she thought, putting sweaters in a drawer in her trunk. She'd go away and Bill would soon forget her and turn back to Ellen.
Her throat was beginning to ache with the pressure of the pain in her heart. It would be better for her to have that pain than for Ellen, who was the best friend she ever had, the finest person she had ever known.
She heard a bell ringing again. "Prunella, if that's the doctor, tell him I'm still asleep. I don't want to talk to him."
"That ain't no telephone. That's the doorbell."
Fabienne looked about her wildly, seeking escape. If that was Bill—
She couldn't see him again!
It was Ellen. Ellen, dumb with surprise when she saw Fabienne kneeling before the trunk with her arms filled with clothes.
"I'm all well this mornin', darling." Fabienne said brightly. "Will you ever forgive me for what I've done to you?"
"I thought we'd got that all settled last night. What are you doing, Fab? Where are you going?"
"Paris."
"Paris?" Ellen repeated, sitting down suddenly.
"Um hum." She put shoes in a drawer with her sweaters. "It ought to be easy to get passage for tomorrow. The boats aren't crowded at this time of year."
"Will you hand me that silk negligee, darling? I can roll some bottles up in it."
"Fab, what are you going to Paris for?"
Fabienne sat back on her heels. "A change, Ellen. Don't you think I need one? I've done enough harm around here."
"You haven't done any harm at all, Chris," explained everything. You couldn't have done anything else."
"Look what Bill had to do."
"That's all right with Bill, and what anybody else thinks of it makes no difference. He's going away soon, anyway. And even if he were not, he's big enough to get away with it."
"You think a lot of Bill, don't you, Ellen?"
"Of course."
Fabienne smiled at her. "He thinks lot of you, too, Ellen. Don't ever forget that."
Ellen gave her a perplexed glance. She said, "Will you be gone long?"
"Some time."
"But you'll be coming back to . . . to me and to the settlement house?"
Fabienne shook her head and smiled at her brightly, with a hard smile. "No, Ellen, no more charity work for me. I'm fed up with being a humanitarian. There's nothing in it. Look where it landed me."
After a long minute, "Ellen said, "I don't believe you, Fab. I know you too well."
"This is the real me you're seeing now. The other was a girl playing a game. Well, the game's finished, Ellen. You and I are of a different caliber. I'm a butterfly."
"That's not true!"
"Oh, yes it is," Fabienne said, tossing her head. "You'll soon find out."
"What do you mean? This isn't like you, darling."
"But it is! The old Fabienne! I'm going to Paris, see mother and lots of my old friends, have a whirl and buy a trousseau and come back—"
"A trousseau?" Ellen's eyes lighted up with pleasure and she got up and went to sit beside Fabienne on the floor.
Fabienne nodded and finished, "And come back and marry Nicky."
The light went out of Ellen's eyes. She was absolutely still as if she were cast in marble.
"Nicky hasn't proposed to me for a long time, but he's always wanted to marry me," Fabienne said gaily, and laughed a little uncertainly.
Ellen got up very slowly. In a toneless voice, she said, "I see."
"I haven't told him yet. I'm going to ring him in a little while and tell him. He'll still make a respectable woman of me. Don't you think so?"
Ellen did not turn from the window where she was looking out, seeing nothing. "Of course he will, Fab. Nicky'd never, never let you down." Her voice caught in her throat.
Fabienne was hanging a dress on her trunk rack, while Ellen was speaking. She arranged its folds and then, quite suddenly, her eyes turned to Ellen's back as shocked realization spread over her face. She got up hurriedly and went to the window, turning Ellen to face her. "Ellen, you and Nicky are in love with each other?" Ellen dropped her eyes. "You are! Why was I so blind! It was because of YOU that Nicky went to work! You old beau-snatcher! Where are my coat and hat?"
Ellen ran after her. "Please, Fabienne. Let me explain."
"Explain!" Fabienne cried joyously. "I haven't got any time for explanations. I've got a date with a dream! Would you mind unpacking that trunk? No! I'll be taking it to Colorado!" She kissed Ellen hurriedly, gave her a great hug and was gone.
She was breathless when she got to St. Joseph's hospital and saw that it was six minutes to eleven.
A nurse at the desk asked her if she wished to see someone.
Fabienne nodded. "Yes. But I can wait. I've been waiting a long time. I can wait a little longer. Do you know when Dr. Mallory will be down?"
"About an hour."
"Thanks." An hour wasn't long to stand at the gates of heaven.

Pumpkin Chiffon Pie—Ingredients: one cooled, baked nine-inch pie shell, one tablespoon gelatin, one-fourth cup cold water, one cup brown sugar (packed in cup), one-half teaspoon salt, two teaspoons cinnamon, one-half teaspoon ginger, one-half teaspoon allspice, one and one-third cups cooked and strained pumpkin (No. 1 can), three egg yolks, one-half cup milk. Soak gelatin in cold water, then mix brown sugar, salt and spices together in top of double boiler; stir in pumpkin. Beat egg yolks until light and blend in milk; add egg yolks and milk to pumpkin mixture and mix thoroughly. Place over boiling water and cook until mixture thickens and flavors are blended, about 10 minutes. Remove from heat and beat in soaked gelatin, using rotary beater. Cool until it begins to set (15 to 20 minutes), then beat until fluffy with rotary egg beater. Make meringue by beating egg whites with one-fourth teaspoon cream of tartar and beating in gradually six tablespoons granulated sugar. Fold meringue into pumpkin mixture and pile lightly into pie shell. Chill until ready to serve.

Double Boiler Icing—Ingredients: one egg white, three-fourths cup sugar, one-eighth teaspoon cream of tartar, three tablespoons water, one-half teaspoon vanilla. Combine in top of double boiler egg white, cream of tartar and water, and beat together just enough to blend. Place over rapidly-boiling water and beat with rotary beater until mixture is white and very light. Icing is done when it barely holds its shape and is not runny as beater is pulled out. This takes from five to seven minutes.

SNAILS AND CLARINETS
PARIS—Among the list of goods exported from France last year were 1,500 pounds of live tortoises for breeding abroad, 3,500,000 living snails and 17,000 clarinets.

ANTI-LYNCHING BILL IN DANGER

Southern Senators Ready To Launch Filibuster Against Statute

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11—The cry of "filibuster" was raised in the senate today as the powerful senate southern bloc served notice it was ready to again defeat the anti-lynching bill.

Senate leaders in charge of the legislative calendar shuddered as the controversial measure came over from the house, approved by a vote of 252 to 131. They saw the possibility of the threatened filibuster holding up important legislation for an indefinite period.

Apparently there was to be no escape from the threat of a filibuster as proponents of the bill served notice they will battle to force it to a vote in the senate. Senators Wagner (D) New York, and Van Nuys (D) Indiana, have already informed Senate Majority Leader Barkley they will insist on its consideration.

The two sponsors of the legislation in the senate claim they have lined up a two-thirds majority of the senate to invoke the cloture rule to shut off all debate and compel a vote on the measure after it has been "adequately" discussed.

Senator Connally (D) Texas, well versed in the art of filibustering, has let it be known the southern bloc intends to "talk the bill to death." The last time the southern group went into action against a similar bill was in 1938. They filibustered from January 6 to February 21 when it was returned to the calendar where it died.
